What we offer you

This fellowship position gives opportunities to gain expertise in different aspects of nephrology including Home Dialysis Therapies, Renal Transplantation, Intensive Care Nephrology, Fluid-electrolyte issues and Acute and Chronic Renal Replacement Therapies.

The fellows are expected to rotate through different areas of nephrology throughout their fellowship training to enrich their knowledge and advance their clinical skills.

Clinical fellows are expected to participate in a research project or develop an educational project under guidance of one or more staff members.

The Division of Nephrology at the University of Ottawa is one of the biggest programs in the province. We are one of the largest Home Dialysis and Renal Transplant programs in the country.
